

BUSINESSES SEEKING WORK WITH THE FILM INDUSTRY

Thank you for your interest in offering the services of your company to filmmakers. Although WashingtonFilmWorks does not get involved with the procurement of services for production companies filming in Washington, we are often contacted for lists. We have put together some suggestions that can help you do it directly. We wish you well.

1. Send a letter to our office on your company letterhead explaining your business, the local address and phone number, and the name of a person filmmakers can contact. You may want to consider listing your company in the Northwest Film, Video and Audio Production Index, which lists crews, production companies, and other support facilities. It is published by Media Index Publishing. Their number in Seattle is (206) 382-9220.
2. Develop a cover letter stating exactly what your company has to offer and an information packet that can be sent to production companies filming in town.
3. Consider subscribing to and/or placing an ad in a local industry publication such as:
Media Inc. (quarterly magazine), (206) 382-9220
MovieMaker Magazine, (206) 783-3869
Marketing Magazine, (425) 487-9111
4. WashingtonFilmWorks maintains files on support companies and facilities. You can send an information packet to our office at
